...There is the God of heaven, and with the basin in his hand and the towel on his arms he is washing his disciples' feet; and here are you and I, instead of washing other men's feet, we are for having them anoint our heads, and pour on the balmy cordial of a flattering unction, that we may say unto ourselves, 'I am rich and increased in goods,' whereas by that very desire we prove ourselves to be naked, and poor and miserable. By the love of Christ, then let us seek to be humble.

~Charles Spurgeon
